GENERAL NEWS.

Dealing in Futures.

NEW YORK, April 1[illegible].—The senate committee on corners in grain [illegible] its session. [illegible] Franklin Edson, former president of the Produce Exchange, testified that dealing in futures became a necessity in order to handle crops, most economically that since it is had been carried on less speculative spirit was shown. The country was not injured by it. If prices had been kept down we would now be importing grain instead of exporting. He agreed with President Jewett that corners were a national calamity. A corner in grain [illegible] decrease followed by reason [illegible] thus helping consumers. A corner was always made and a buyer could demand grain at will instead of margins. A dealer might ruin [illegible] create a corner by buying for a large line of customers. If the proposed law passed business would be driven out of the state.

A Youthful Mail Robber.

OMAHA, April 1[illegible].—For about a month our merchants and bankers have been troubled about their mail, particularly that which is sent in the morning, and as a result of investigation by special agents Fury and Seabeck thefts were traced to the Omaha postoffice and at 5 o'clock this morning they arrested Oliver Merrill, aged 15 years, whom they caught in the act of stealing a package of letters. Merrill was employed by the Omaha Republican and transmitted the early mail of that journal to the postoffice, and saw it weighed, thus having access to the postoffice. He has stolen hundreds and hundreds of letters and only obtained about $50 in cash. He destroyed nearly all of the letters and also a large number of checks, drafts, etc., amounting, it is now estimated to $30,000. His depredations have caused much trouble in business circles here. Many of the letters were destined for Chicago. Young Merrill is the son of highly respected parents.

Judge Hilton on the Retirement.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Judge Hilton says in regard to the retirement from business of A. T. Stewart & Co. that he is simply tired of business and that the firm do not withdraw from trade because they have been unsuccessful. The policy instituted by Mr. Stewart has been adhered to since his death. Hilton thinks his attitude towards the Jews was an advantage to his business. Leading dry goods merchants declare that the house has been declining ever since Stewart's death, that the management was not good, that the removal of the wholesale house up town was a great mistake and Stewart & Co.'s trade was seriously affected by the loss of the Hebrew patronage.

Bennett's Amusements.

NEW YORK, April 16.—James Gordon Bennett arrived from Europe to-day. His intention was to return in his new yacht Namouna, as soon as she had her trial trip, but he was greatly disappointed to find she was not ready. It is thought she will be ready to come down the river from Newburg toward the latter part of the week, and then Mr. Bennett will make a trip in her and, if she fulfills expectations, will provision her and sail at once on an extended cruise to the Azores and Canary Islands with a party of friends.

Gould on the way to California.

Jay Gould, accompanied by his wife and daughter, left town on Friday night for a trip to California and through the southwest. Gould said to his friends that he did not know how long he should be abroad, but he expects to visit San Francisco, Laredo, and possibly the City of Mexico. It was reported in the street to-day that Gould's family physician accompanied him, but the report was denied, and his friends say that he is in excellent health, though he has suffered for a week from a cold.

In the Sheriff's Hands.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The lace importing house of F. Hemsley & Co., 43 and 50 White street, has been in the hands of the sheriff the past week on an attachment obtained by the son of the senior partner, Theo. Kidd, for $97,171. On Friday another judgment was entered against members of the firm, William E. Kidd and Henry E. Kidd, in favor of Thos. Adams of Nottingham, England, for $275,411. The firm assert they are solvent and say the only creditors are Adams & Co.

A Postal Fraud Arrested.

DENVER, April 16.—Announcement of the arrest of Route Agent Park at St. Louis is hailed with great delight here, as 67 complaints of lost drafts, &c., have been made to the inspector during the last three months. It is thought the purpose of the thieves was to secure signatures for a gigantic scheme of forgeries.

Indignation at Arthur's Veto.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—A large mass meeting of workingmen to express indignation at the action of President Arthur in vetoing the anti-Chinese immigration bill was held last evening and participated in by from 6000 to 8000 workingmen, representing all trades. The meeting was presided over by Fred. Vandusen, president of the state labor council. Addresses were delivered by Thompson H. Murch, the stonecutter congressman from Maine, Chas. A. Zimmerman of the trades and labor bureau of statistics of New Jersey, and a number of others interested in the movement.

The Louisiana Flood.

MORGAN CITY, April 16.—The water has receded an inch. Three negroes were drowned by the upsetting of a boat on the Lagonda plantation to-day. Eight houses on the plantation were destroyed by the storm of Wednesday night. The prayers of negroes quartered in the stable lofts could be heard above the roar of the storm. The panic among them was fearful.

Dead Bodies Found.

BALTIMORE, April 16.—Six dead bodies of negro infants were found to-day in a shed near Granby street occupied by Charles A. White, a negro undertaker. The remains were in a terrible state of decomposition. White says he does not know how the bodies came there. An inquest will be held.

Tennessee Democratic Convention.

NASHVILLE, April 16.—The representative chairman of the executive committee of the two wings of the democratic party to-day issued a joint call for a state convention of the party in this city, June 30, to nominate a candidate for governor.

Ohio Representatives Censured.

COLUMBUS, O., April 15.—The house of representatives to-night adopted resolutions of censure and reprimand of representatives Bloch and Wright, charged with soliciting from lobbyists money for their votes and influence.

Loss by Fire.

CINCINNATI, April 16.—The loss by the destruction of the Cincinnati Cooperage Company's works in this city this afternoon is estimated at $109,000, insurance, $30,000.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Action of the Republican Caucus.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The action by the republican caucus last night in agreeing to support Page's motion for the passage of a new Chinese bill Monday under suspension of rules was hearty and practically unanimous. A motion can't be made until the committee on education and labor is reached in its regular order in case of motions thus authorized. One motion being allowed for each committee in turn. If this cannot be reached before the usual hour for adjournment arrives on Monday Page will ask the house to take a recess until Tuesday morning, and thus prolong the legislative session of Monday sufficiently for the committee to be reached prior to the expiration of Monday's privilege. The prospects for the passage of the bill in the house are undoubtedly well assured.

Lincoln will not Succeed Lowell.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Secretary Lincoln denies that he is to relieve Minister Lowell. It is also reliably ascertained that the withdrawal of Lowell was not discussed by the cabinet.

Sergeant Mason's Case.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—It is understood that when the Mason case comes before the supreme court on petition for habeas corpus, the attorney general will challenge the right of court to take original jurisdiction on the ground that the question could only be brought to that court on appeal.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Beef for the Britishers.

LONDON, April 16.—Conservatives are making political capital of the statement that all naval ports are accepting of contracts for American beef for the navy. It is expected the subject will be raised in parliament. There is a rumor, probably true, that the government intends to abolish the curing establishment at Deptford and favor a system of obtaining supplies by contract from private firms.

Objecting Workmen.

PARIS, April 16.—Five thousand employes representing every trade connected with manufacture struck against the proposal of masters to deduct 10 centimes on every hundred francs of wages to be applied to payment of insurance premiums against accident.

Another Surprise for the Czar Discovered.

VIENNA, April 16.—The Presse says trustworthy merchants from Moscow report that eighty workmen on the Uspenski cathedral were arrested on Saturday in consequence of the discovery of a mine under that edifice, in which the intended ceremony of coronation of the czar takes place.

Giant Powder Manufacture.

Deer Lodge, New Northwest.

The refusal of the Union Pacific and Utah & Northern railroad companies to carry giant powder or other explosives over their roads was one of the complaints made against them last fall, although by many the good sense of the discrimination was recognized. The result of this has been the organization of a company in New York with $200,000 capital to manufacture giant and black blasting powder in Montana. Mr. E. L. Bonner writes from New York under date of March 31st that the company has been organized, will erect its works near Silver Bow and that within ninety days from the date of his letter they will be completed and the demands of Montana supplied. The railroad companies carry the ingredients but not the manufactured powder.

LONDON LETTER.

The Week's Occurrences in the Political and Business World of Great Britain and Europe.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

London, [illegible] (by cable).—The Marquis of Salisbury's speech [illegible] and practically the conservative party are now pledged to the support of [illegible] Smith's proposal respecting [illegible] interest in Ireland. They have practically [illegible] nevertheless committed [illegible] to details in which the practicability of the proposal entirely depends. Not the [illegible] that the landlords' rents are to be the measure of [illegible] they [illegible] become successful £10,000,000 would be needed but I have it on good authority that the real amount wanted would not exceed £2,000,000 and probably would fall below this sum. It is proposed to deal with the arrears of rent on the same principle—the state advancing money to pay off part and the landlord remitting the remainder. The proposition to carry it out will be laid formally before the house on the first Monday in May by W. H. Smith, M. P. for Westminster. The radicals dare not oppose it, for they stand openly committed to the central principle of the measure, and the Irish people are reported to be enthusiastically in its favor. No compulsion would be put on landlords to part with their property, but those who wish to sell would be able to obtain their prices and have done with it. This new departure leaves the government high and dry, and must cause a deep and widespread sensation as soon as it is thoroughly understood throughout the country. As for the other problem presented in Ireland for solution the conservatives would probably be in favor of liberating the suspects, while at the same time they would take measures to preserve order by legal means.

American securities are again unsettled by New York prices and by rumors, which have been spread in various directions by a syndicate of bears, that Gould has been seriously ill.

The tide of American travel has already set in strongly. A large number of New Yorkers are in London and the chief hotels are crowded. Those of your readers who are coming over will do well to write or telegraph from Queenstown for rooms if they wish to save themselves much trouble.

It seems likely at this time of writing that a further reprieve will be granted to Lamson, but the case is surrounded with doubt. The home secretary has been bitterly assailed everywhere for the first reprieve, and people do not scruple to say that his action was due to his American connections. Lady Harcourt being a daughter of Motley, the historian, consequently he may be pardoned for hesitating about taking further action in a business so manifestly unpopular.

The most remarkable contributions to the discussion this week have been three letters from Professor Goldwin Smith, offering the hearty repugnance of Americans to seeing their country used as the basis for an Irish war of assassination, dastardly outrage and journalism of murder. He replied to-day from a criticism reaffirming the feasibility of securing convictions by judicial commons, and declining to let the question affecting the public order, life, property and the integrity of the empire be decided in the public opinion of Parnell and Captain Moonlight.

The excitement about Parnell's release which amounted to an agitation on Monday has entirely subsided. The reported negotiations of Parnell with certain radicals are not unfounded. Parnell's appearance and the statement entirely contradict current fabrications respecting his harsh treatment while in prison.

The Carlyle controversy has been revived by Froude's biography, the effect of which is to confirm the impression of the essential untrustworthiness of Carlyle's judgment of contemporaries.

The Queen's return to Windsor passed almost unperceived.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Convictions and Sentenced.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Fong Ah Sing, Chinese highbinder, convicted of murder in the first degree, was sentenced yesterday to be hanged at date not yet fixed. He was convicted of killing a Chinese courtesan, Quong Ah Cheo, was convicted of murder, and will be hanged next Saturday.

Thomas Anderson convicted of having in his possession a metal die for counterfeiting was sentenced yesterday to eight years imprisonment. Anderson is a carpenter by occupation, and formerly worked at the trade in Oregon, and he came from Portland a few months ago.

NEVADA.

Comstock Notes.

VIRGINIA CITY, April 16.—During the week Union has extracted 511 tons from 2500 foot and 2600 foot levels and has sent to the mills 82 tons. The north east drift on the 2600 foot level is out 21 feet and has 30 feet yet to go to reach the point where ore was struck with the drift. The winze on the 2700 foot level has been sunk 10 feet below the floor of the stopes all the way in good milling ore. Charley Forman speaking of what he saw in Union, says they have a magnificent stope there, much better than most people think.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Seattle's Growth.

SEATTLE, W. T., April 16.—A chamber of commerce is to be instituted in this city to-morrow night.

If the business of the local postoffice is a guide, Seattle is growing with great rapidity. Sales of stamps amounted to $1250.55 during the quarter ending September 30, 1881, and to $1549.69 during the quarter ending December 30, 1881. During the last quarter, ending March 31, 1882, the sales reached the figure of $1767.17.

The county is now finishing the new court house and the city is about to erect a $25,000 schoolhouse, while the street work mapped out for 1882 cannot be done for less than forty thousand dollars.

IDAHO.

The Wood River Country Booming.

HAILEY, Idaho, April 15.—The first freight received on Wood river this season came in to-day from Kelton. There were two wagons drawn by eight horses carrying fourteen tons. The teams were only fourteen days on the road, including nearly three days delay at the crossing of the Snake river, owing to contrary winds. Such a quick trip at this unfavorable season proves that the roads are in good condition and gives cause for general rejoicing here. Arrivals already average about thirty per day and the rush has not yet commenced. All the stage roads to Wood river are lined with people going on foot horseback, in wagons and in every possible way. Letters from all directions indicate a very great influx of population, and the immigration this year is expected to be unprecedented in the history of mining camps. The Wood river company's smelter situated one mile above this place, is being over hauled and got ready to be blown in by the first day of May. Although several capitalists are already here from the east, there have been no recent transfers of important mines as intending buyers are too moderate in their offers. The bullion and ore shipment from Wood river for the seven months ending December 1, 1881, exceeds $1,200,000. The shipments during the same time this year will exceed $3,000,000.

A Thrifty and Liberal Crowd.

Chicago Tribune.

The prohibitionists in Iowa have a [illegible] reality very like the religion which was got up by an irrepressible woman at a camp meeting. "Believing," she said, "that the wearing of jewelry was dragging me down to hell, I took it off and gave it to my sister." The Iowa legislators have officially construed their proposed anti liquor amendment to the constitution as designed not to prohibit the manufacture within the state of intoxicants including ale, beer, etc., for sale within the state. They don't want to disturb the home market of their virtuous farmers for rye and barley, nor to lose the taxable value of their distilleries and breweries. But they wish the business of dragging down to hell those who consume the products to be confined to the neighbors over the line. A thrifty and a liberal crowd are the Iowa prohibitionists.

Mr. Arthur is rapidly earning the reputation of being the worst president the republic ever had. Its only consolation lies in the fact that it never elected him.

BEN BUTLER ON THE CHINESE QUESTION.

Some Solid Chunks of Advice from the Massachusetts Philosopher.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CHICAGO, April 16.—The Washington Capital, Butler has addressed to the new minister to China, J. Russell Young, a long letter, in which he says: "An American representative to a foreign government has ever been the fruit of our revolutionary war achieved during the lifetime of the republic, I had a more delicate and complicated state of affairs dealt with than has fallen to yourself. In the first place you are necessarily present yourself as a citizen bearing with him what a very ancient and proud people may consider to have been an attempt at insult to their government and oppressive to their people on the part of the legislative branch of your government, second, you are called upon to carry on diplomatic operations with an empire at the very moment when the question whether your government may not at its pleasure break any treaties made with the empire has been affirmed by its legislature, the effect of which action has only been prevented by the conservative power of the presidential veto. This state of affairs invites me, as your friend, to suppose it would not be unacceptable to you if I should in this article give you my views of what is now known as the Chinese question. The Burlingame treaty was ratified when I was in congress. I witnessed the advent of the Chinese officials under his conduct and their flattering reception on the floor of the house when it was known that commercial and international relations had been opened between the United States and that vast empire. Mr. Burlingame was my personal friend. Events and aspirations of which it is needless here to speak except as to their results caused me to devote very considerable time and attention to acquire knowledge of China and the habits of Chinese. Perhaps that study disposed my mind to take an opposing view of the benefit of that treaty. Having discussed it with Mr. Burlingame in the confidence of private friendship, I took early public occasion on July 4, 1870, to make known my opinions upon the dangerous effect upon the country of Chinese immigration invited and sanctioned by that treaty. As its disadvantages, then theoretical with me have now become practical upon the Pacific coast, to show that I have no occasion for my sudden or late change of views will you pardon me if I give you some paragraphs from that address, delivered at Woodstock, Conn., nearly 12 years ago."

He then quotes in extenso from his speech to show he lauded this country was a land where the oppressed of all nations might find a home. "It never occurred to me this country was under any obligation, either logically from the character of its political institutions or from any consideration of public or international law, to receive on its soil any one person whom it did not expressly or impliedly invite to come here. The true theory is, our political status extends an invitation to subjects of all nations of like civilization with our own, who, by their hatred of despotism, or fleeing from the weight of its oppression, or animated with a love for free institutions who have energy to come here and make homes for themselves and their descendants, and become part of us to come here at will and be welcomed with pleasure. This permission and welcome has never been extended to the importation of paupers, criminals and imported laborers, brought here under contract or by purchase not working for themselves but for others, and having no purpose or expectation of becoming citizens even if any implied license had been given for any such to come. It certainly can not be doubted that it is revocable at our pleasure and in absence of treaty stipulations to the contrary parties so coming and not leaving the country voluntarily can be sent back when we deem our convenience or necessity requires. These propositions were settled by our fathers by the closure of the slave trade and the alien law, both emanations from the very statesmen who won our liberties and drafted our constitution. In the absence of the solemn obligations of a treaty there can be no doubt of the right of this country to exclude any man from its shore or participation in its government, or being allowed to live under its protection if once here and not naturalized, if distasteful to the community organized into the government in which he is."

"The cloud hardly larger than a man's hand now overshadows the Pacific coast and becomes a leading question of the administrative policy of the country. Two years since I went to the Pacific coast with one of my friends to examine for myself the condition of the Chinese and whether it was desirable that they should or should not come here."

"After careful investigation I found the Chinese were among the best laboring men on the coast in all branches of industry whether manufacturing, mining, domestic or agricultural, that to a remarkable degree as a whole they were honest and in all vocations exceedingly intelligent. They were temperate and as a rule peaceful, and they were not underbidding labor so much as they found what their labor was worth. For example I found Chinese domestics, to the good qualities of which all bear testimony, could not be obtained for less than $30 per month, exclusive of their living. With these and many other good qualities there was nevertheless a deep seated universal feeling that the presence of the Chinese was not beneficial to the country. Naturally I sought for a solution of this seemingly paradoxical state of things. Why should 99 men of every 100 on the Pacific coast desire that good laborers on farms, good miners and good faithful artisans and desirable domestic servants be expelled from or prohibited from coming to the country with millions of acres of land open and unoccupied, and such labor needed as the very foundation of its wealth? I admit at first blush it may seem to my mind the solution of this question is this. Those very good qualities of the Chinese, which enable them to make large productions and the economy and thrift which permit them to lay up great sums as earnings, render their presence most injurious to the country. This is the cause of the transitory character of their presence in America, all of them counting on going back with what they have earned and saved amounting to $1.50 a day on the average and all this surplus is either hoarded to be carried or actually sent back. Therefore there is $180,000 taken from the capital of this coast which is not even loaned for investment. This makes about $45,000,000 a year. If this very large drain of capital from the country has spread over the whole $50,000,000 of our people and the loss has to be borne by all of us it is quite possible, nay probable, that it would not too seriously cripple our enterprises or cripple our resources, but the fact is this great sum is substantially taken away from a community consisting of some 1,000,000, more or less."

"That an infant community quite isolated, yet where capital would bring an interest of from eight to twelve per cent at the lowest rate, what would be the effects upon the prosperity of the government should they levy a tax of $45,000,000 on such a community yearly, in addition to all the other imports? What is the necessary effect of such a drain? The usual one. It impoverishes people and tends to make a community of very rich and very poor, obliterating the middle class which is the great element of the stability of a people."

"In Ireland capitalists spend the profits they derive from labor abroad. Here a laboring man keeps to spend all his earnings abroad. Now what is to be the effect in future upon the Pacific coast if this drain continues—a drain not of profits but of earnings, a drain of all that is earned by quite one fifth of quite the best and most industrious men on the Pacific coast, and all gains of merchants and others of the same class? In my judgment no man can look upon this view of the question without coming to the conclusion that under the circumstances the presence of Chinese is very baneful, irrespective of any question of race or religion. I agree, my dear Young, with the president's veto of the bill because of the unnecessary harshness of its provisions and of its abrogating provisions of a treaty and I think the desire I end might be accomplished in a different way and I doubt whether the bill would accomplish the end at all. It does not go far enough to be effective because all China might be landed in Mexico and Southern California and this bill would not interfere with them at all. If this land is to be effective by guarding from being overrun by Chinese it must be done by land as well as by sea. Those who are here, who we have invited here by our treaty we cannot very well send back, but if the bill should provide that we would send back those who should come hereafter whether by sea or land immigration would stop in both directions."

"There is another view of the question to which I invite your attention. So far we have had substantially no immigration from China. All the immigration we have had has been from the British provinces of Hongkong and Macao in British vessels under visa of a British consul. Would it not be better for our government to bring a little general diplomatic pressure on the British government to hold in restraint their provincial Chinese? This would more effectually cure the evil than breaking the treaty with the emperor of China for doing which he may retaliate by abrogation of our friendly and commercial relations. It would seem to me to be just as well if you could in some way stop at the court of St. James on your way to China and deal with that government on the Chinese immigration question before you go to China. Great Britain can stop it much more efficiently than China, according to my view of the matter if she can be made to do so. Not that I desire, by any means that you should be compelled to supersede Mr. Lowell, but to aid him as he seems to have his hands full in not having Irish American citizens let out by England without undertaking to have Chinese kept in."

AN INTERESTING TALE.

Lieutenant Danenhower's Story of the Jeannette's Loss and the Crew's Perilous Journeyings.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—The Chronicle publishes a letter from Dr. H. C. Dorr, an American who is now in Siberia, to a friend in this city dated at Irkutsk. He [illegible] Lieutenant Danenhower who gave him some interesting details of the loss of the Jeannette from which he had [illegible] as are [illegible].

Since the first fall when they were caught by the ice in trying to reach Wrangell Island they have never taken a step that was held in the jaws of death, squeezed till every timber [illegible] creaked this way and that, thrown up and down, and caught again and every hour in suspense, never knowing when the ice would close up on them and the ship would sink beneath them. While working over the ice dragging the three boats, they discovered Bennett island, to explore which they spent three weeks of their precious summer days and expended much of their limited supply of food. To this detour those who survived attribute much of their suffering and the death of the commander with 19 men. After three months of this perilous and exhausting work they came to blue water, and then with fair winds took a course for the mouth of Lena river. Melville, that was stove against a block of ice and the captain's boat lost her mast and sail. The captain landed with all well, but abandoned the boat as the water was shallow and it would not make the channel of the river.

Wm. Stump, son of Jesse Stump of Polk county, died on the 12th inst. of consumption, aged 21 years. He was one of the class of '80 from Willamette University.

Mr. Vendel, of Cornelius, recently had three ribs broken and his neck and back badly injured by being thrown from his wagon while his team was running away.

The amount shown by the city tax roll of Corvallis was $1724. Of this sum only $[illegible] 20 were returned delinquent, the parties against whom this was levied having removed from Benton county.

The funeral of Hon. James A. Yantis at Corvallis, took place on the 13th inst., the Masonic fraternity conducting the ceremonies. The obsequies were largely attended by friends who had known deceased during the greater part of his life.

A Yaquina correspondent writes: This week has marked an important stage in the progress of the work. The contracts for the three tunnels between Corvallis and Yaquina have been let to Mr. J. A. Bugbee of San Francisco. The lengths of the two tunnels on the descent from the Summit into the Yaquina valley are 750 and 350 feet, and that just below Mr. Napp's house 600 feet. The work is to be begun within two weeks from signing the contract, and the tunnels and approaches have all to be completed by the end of July next.

Three ladies of King's valley—Mrs. Tom Ramsdell, Miss Anna Ramsdell and Miss Emma Price—were crossing the Luckiamute recently in a skiff. The current being very swift the boat struck a log and capsized and all were thrown into the river. The girls were carried by the swift current down stream about one hundred yards, they holding fast to each other and being borne up by their clothing. At last one of the ladies caught hold of some brush on the bank and thus pulled each other out. It was a very narrow escape. They were nearly chilled and strangled to death.

Eastern Oregon.

The Dalles is to have a new public school house to be constructed of brick.

The amount of money in the Wasco county treasury is equal to the scrip issued, and sufficient to construct the court house now projected.

Capt. John Smith of the Warm Spring agency has been granted sixty days leave of absence. He was also granted permission to allow the Wasco and Warm Spring Indians to set separate local associations of tribal relations in the understanding of the government, but family relations. This he does upon the ground that two tribes are unwilling to associate intimately with each other. He informs us that he has been furnished funds to establish a school for Indian children, where they will be placed wholly under the influence of civilization.

Southern Oregon.

On Friday of last week Milburn Hill was drowned while attempting to cross Willow creek, a stream flowing into Clear lake, Modoc county. Cal. Deceased and Lee Lowe were together, and riding into the creek Hill's horse got into deep water, became frightened, and rearing, threw his rider, who sank and did not come to the surface after going down. Mr. Hill was about 21 years of age and was proprietor of the Tule swamp. He was an important witness for the defense in the Laws-Calavan murder case.

Washington Territory.

The pilot schooner Champion got 40 seals in a four days catch with only four canoes.

Clarke county stands third in the territory in number of school districts—43; 3d in school districts—45; 4th in number of [illegible] taught—49; 4th in number of persons attending public schools—1167, 3d in number of persons of school age—2260; 6th in number of teachers—25.

J. E. Marshal, of Fiona Prairie, is growing alfalfa, and this year will get two crops from his meadow. Alfalfa does not need irrigating and it will grow on any of the bottom lands in this section especially if the soil is a little sandy. The roots of alfalfa will find water if it is within eight or ten feet of the surface. For a dooryard not intended to be used as a lawn nothing is cleaner or better than alfalfa. It is close growing when well set, and is of a dark green color, and when thrifty at all, of rank growth.

F. Meeker has demonstrated the advantages of a beet sugar factory to the people of King county, and such a number as to induce liberal aid to the enterprise. A Mr. Alvey residing on White river, is possessed of the quantity and quality of land necessary to raise beets for a large factory which he agrees to turn into the company as stock and Messrs. Schwabacher, McNaught and others give assurance of their oral subscriptions. In fact it may be said that over one-half of the amount necessary to start the wheels of the factory has been subscribed.

THE ALASKA SEAL.

Habits of a Remarkable Amphibious Animal.

Alaska is chiefly remarkable for having produced $7,000,000 upon the presentation of Russia's check on the American people and a fur company that has monopolized the proceeds of the territory ever since. The staple of the country is really an animal whose habits are not thoroughly understood. A seal is a good deal of a Turk in his way. He has a harem sometimes consisting of fifteen wives, whose function are to keep him straight. For the male seal is a lazy fish unless there is a fight on hand and then he becomes energetic. Two old bucks will fight to the death, and the survivor will go to sleep or lie around and be fed until another fight drops in socially, and then he takes down the climbers again. It has been claimed that amphibious animals are guided by blinded instinct and have no reasoning faculties. That is a mistake so far as seals are concerned. It is told by a government official stationed there that he saw two seals attack a third, who after a tedious fight killed them both. A fourth watched the fracas from an adjacent and commodious rock. As soon as it was finished he waddled over to the scene of the [illegible] and assisted the victor so that he did turn up his flus and started [illegible] to solve the mystery of [illegible] eternity. That seal reasoned that the other fellow had expended much energy in the former fight and was in a condition to be licked. Then he settled down in the dead enemy's harem and prepared to spend his days in righteous contemplation of his sins in the flesh. But stocking a harem [illegible] always involves a fight. Seal families live very close together on land almost within reach. [illegible] [illegible]

THE FITZ JOHN PORTER CASE.

The President Declares he can give him no Encouragement.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, April 1[illegible].—The attorney general in the letter [illegible] with the [illegible] the [illegible] and later [illegible] constituting [illegible] whether it is not [illegible] act [illegible] and [illegible] review [illegible] reversing the [illegible] giving a sentence of a court martial dismissing an officer [illegible] has the solemnity and significance of the [illegible] a court. [illegible] Law [illegible] In the opinion of the [illegible] the judgment [illegible] regular [illegible] within judicial [illegible] It must [illegible] be [illegible] final and [illegible] and then [illegible] execution final and [illegible] against whom it was rendered [illegible] and the effect of this has in my opinion to [illegible] of the president in approving the [illegible] martial dismissing an officer after that approval had been [illegible] by actual dismissal. Here it is proper to add that the very inquiry [illegible] was [illegible] has been [illegible] resolved in the affirmative by [illegible] the late [illegible] of a former administration. [illegible] by the message of the president June [illegible] transmitting to congress a report and proceedings of the board of army officers upon the case of Fitz John Porter. The conclusion is there reached that the president is without power in the absence of legislation to act upon the recommendation of the report further than by submitting the same to congress. This conclusion is a denial of the existence of any power in the president to review and annul and set aside the findings and sentence of court martial in that case as recommended by the board and it is entitled to great weight as being the view not only of the president himself but presumably that of his cabinet among whose members were men eminent in the profession of law. These opinions of my predecessors and the supreme court [illegible] go to establish the position that the sentence of a legally constituted court martial in a case within its jurisdiction, and which has been approved by reviewing authorities and carried into execution cannot afterwards, under the present status of the laws be set aside. The proceedings are then at an end and action has had on a sentence in contemplation of law is final. I am unable to arrive at a different conclusion and accordingly hold in the case under consideration the president has no power to review the proceedings of court martial and annul its sentence. It follows from this view the president can afford the applicant no relief through revision of sentence. But the sentence involved immediate dismissal from the army and disability to hold office thereafter. The dismissal is an accomplished fact and so far sentence is completely executed. The disability is continuing the punishment in regard to sentence is being executed. The latter may be remitted by exercising the pardoning power but the former can not in any way be reversed thereby. A pardon would not restore the applicant to office in the military service from which he was dismissed, which could not be done by appointment under special authority from congress since by the general law of military service appointments to the rank of general officers are to be made by selecting from the army and all vacancies in established regiments in the corps to the rank of colonel to be filled by promotion according to seniority except in case of disability or other incompetency. In this connection I remark the act of 1868 referred to by Gen. Porter in a letter. The act has little import and is only meant to be a declaratory law, namely that an officer cashiered or dismissed by sentence of court martial cannot be otherwise restored to military service than through a new appointment with consent of the senate. The law is the same as to officers of the army who cease to be such in other ways. The power to appoint is not conferred by that statute. This power remains subject to general law, and in absence of special authority from congress, can only be executed with respect to a person who has ceased to be an officer in the manner above stated. While it might be equally well exercised if such person had never been an officer in the military service. Upon the general question considered the conclusion arrived at is that it is not within the power of the president to offer an application the relief asked for, that is to say, it is not competent for the president to annul and reduce the finding and sentence of a court martial and to reinstate him to the senate for restoration to his former rank in the army.

The opinion of the attorney general is accompanied by a letter from the secretary of war as follows:

WAR DEPT., WASHINGTON, April 15, 1882.

SIR:—The president has had under consideration your letter of the 2d of December 1881 in which you allege the injustice of the sentence of court martial under which in 1863 you were as an officer of the army dismissed from the service of the United States and forever disqualified from holding any office of trust or profit under the government of the United States and refer to the report of the advisory board made in 1878, and ask the president if convinced of the justice of the recommendation of the advisory board to annul and set aside the findings and sentence of the court martial and nominate you to the senate for restoration to your proper rank in the army. It being advisable that before considering the propriety of the motion requested by you the question of the power of the president in the premises be determined, your letter was by the president referred to the attorney general for investigation of the subject. By direction of the president I have to inclose a copy of the opinion of the attorney general, and to inform you the president concurs in the views therein expressed and consequently compliance with the application contained in your letter is not within his authority. I have the honor to be very respectfully your obedient servant,

ROBT. T. LINCOLN, Sec'y of War.

To General F. J. Porter.

NATURALIZING A CHINAMAN.

A Celestial with Short Hair and American Clothes Swears Allegiance.

Philadelphia Times.

Henry Leon, a tall, broad-shouldered, burly Chinaman, was admitted yesterday to the rights of citizenship in the court of quarter sessions. He has been in this country for about eight years. He sacrificed his queue long ago and his clothes are in the prevailing American fashion. He is a Christian and married. His wife is a pleasant-faced Irish woman and a Roman Catholic. Leon reads and writes English quite well and speaks it fluently. He has been in various sorts of business. Just now he has a laundry on Eighth street, near Federal. He has made a good deal of money by starting laundries in various parts of the city and selling them out to green Celestials at a profit.

He was not permitted to take the oath without opposition. While Court Clerk Hensey was asking the usual questions James Gillin, a little man with a flaming red face, who was formerly in the employ of John Sharkey, of the detective firm of Sharkey & Miller and is popularly known as "Sharkey's Kid," came hurrying into the court room. He was stopped at the gate of the space set apart for members of the bar by officer Devine.

"Your Honor, I protest—" he began, when the officer ordered him out of the way and told him curtly to "shut up." He got around by another way to the court clerk's desk and both ered that functionary with a voluminous dissertation on the anti-Chinese course of recent national legislation and objected emphatically to the naturalization of Leon as unlawful. The clerk, however, managed to get to the end of the performance without mishap. As the Chinaman left the court room he smiled benignly upon his opponent. The latter, however, would not be appeased and continued to be demonstratively sympathetic for the country, which is going to the dogs and the Chinese.

The Veto Message Not Republican.

[Chicago Tribune.]

Mr. Arthur has studied the writings of his lamented predecessor to little purpose. He has forgotten if he ever knew, the sixth article of the republican platform of 1880. He has been betrayed and misled by the specious and manufactured opinion of an inconsiderable number of people east of the Allegheny mountains. He has dug his own political grave broad and deep. No republican national convention can or will indorse the position which he has taken in this extraordinary veto message.

Queen Victoria is very particular about her sleeping arrangements. The bed that she uses at Mentone was sent from Windsor Castle. Another bed was sent to Portsmouth to be placed in the Victoria and Albert for the Queen's use during the two nights she slept on board the yacht.

Fritz has been hunting up the pedigree of Dr. Tanner, the celebrated hungry man, and finds he is of very ancient lineage. The forty third verse of chapter nine, Acts of the Apostles reads: "And it shall come to pass that he tarried many days with one Simon a Tanner."

It is again announced that ex-Vice President Wheeler is to marry a Chicago lady, Mrs. Dr. Wood, ward, widow of the late surgeon general of the United States army. It is said the marriage will take place in May. Mr. Wheeler is now three score.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, April 15.

House.

House went into committee of the whole on the tariff commission bill.

Wyatt of Kentucky confined his remarks principally to an attack upon the bill recently passed by the house amending the internal revenue laws.

McMillan opposed the bill on the ground that it was the duty of congress to legislate directly on the subject of revision of tariff. A high tariff he said tax of every farmer, printer, teacher, doctor, lawyer, preacher and merchant in the land in order to enrich a few great manufacturers and even placed a duty on blades thus prohibiting the plan to save time from going untaxed to the people. If there be revision of the tariff why didn't the representatives of the people stand by their duty like men and not shrink from that duty and send an irresponsible commission all over the country junketing and feasting in order to inform congress what it must do.

Shellabarger, Wilson and Ward advocated passage of the bill and Willis favored continuance of the protection system. Adjourned.

A statistician computes that 150 tons of human hair annually change owners in France. This does not include the locks that change owners in conjugal unpleasantness.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Several persons were drowned but not a single barrel of whisky was lost by the recent floods in Kentucky. This seems to refute the theory that the most dearly loved are taken first.—Norristown Herald.

The New York authorities are very careful of their police force. They never put two officers on the same beat because it is said to be unhealthy for two persons to sleep together.—Frankfort Herald.

I am thinking of going to Texas to live, but I have heard discouraging accounts of the lawlessness of the people. Please tell me if the laws are enforced by the people of Texas. Certainly they are enforced. Take, for example the homestead law, a law that secures to the owners 200 acres of land in the country or a $5000 lot in the city, exemption of said farm or city lot from forced sale. They cannot be sold to satisfy the owner's creditors. Now it would fill you with admiration to see how these landowners insist in seeing that the homestead law is enforced, and how the miserable creditors, who would break the law if they could, are effectually suppressed.—Texas Siftings.

For several years M. Pasteur, a French scientist, has engaged in a most interesting series of experiments to test the value of vaccination for the prevention of the most contagious febrile diseases to which domestic animals are subject. His latest experiment has served to show the value of the discovery as a preventive of anthrax fever, which has been very fatal in its results among the domestic sheep of France. M. Pasteur, between May 5 and July 21, 1881, vaccinated eighteen sheep. January 26 last these eighteen sheep, with five others that had not been vaccinated, were inoculated with an injection of virus (virus tres virulent) and in five days thereafter the last of the unvaccinated sheep died, while at the present writing the vaccinated ones are as healthy as if the virus had never entered their systems. M. Pasteur intends in June next to inaugurate a series of experiments showing how the disease is spread by the soil, and will at the same time subject animals that have been vaccinated one year to the contagious influences. The success of these experiments entitle M. Pasteur to the rank of a great public benefactor.

The Sweet Distraction.

"Waitah!" roared Oscar, as he peered down the fourth floor corridor of the Palace, on Monday evening, with agony on his face.

There was no answer. The bell boy heard him of course, but said nothing. He only smiled viciously. He almost knew that Oscar's suspender button had come off at the critical moment, and he was howling for a thread and needle but he would not make a sign within the prescribed five minutes for fear of losing his place.

"Waitah," roared the helpless æsthetic through a crack in the door, and continued:

> Curse that black and lazy waiter,
> Curse his lazy, snail-like tread,
> I'll give him an elevator
> That will bust his ——— head."

"Oh, Oscar!" said John Towson, who, walking by, was shocked at his profanity.

"Poems are never immoral," said Oscar sweetly. "They are only well or badly written and I think those lines will soon correct." Wasp.

The Harp of a Thousand Strings.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

There have been almost as many claimants to the authorship of Branham's "Harp-of-a-Thousand-Strings" sermon as there were to that of the "Beautiful Snow," and it is a coincidence that many of the claimants are ministers of the gospel. A reprobate suggested that perhaps this state of things may be accounted for upon the theory that the majority of sermons are so similar in character and style of the "Harp" sermon that the ministers who preach them are so impressed with the similarity that many of them really believe that it is one of their own.

"Archdeacon" Dunbar, of London, considers the harp the instrument of religious worship, as exemplified in Jewish worship and in representations of heavenly worship and so thinks the instrument has been much overlooked and ought to be generally used. Accordingly he has secured a professional performer to play at all his services.

They must have learned sleep in Texas, for a farmer in Travis advertises for "an industrious man, to take general charge of five thousand sheep who can talk Spanish."

Jesse James was hanging a picture when killed. If it should turn out that the picture was a chromo no jury will convict the slayer.

JURORS AND JURIES.

The people of Danville, Ill., are very indignant over the recent acquittal of two men who are known to be guilty of incendiarism. The accused took a change of venue to an adjoining county, and got off "by hook or by crook." Somebody has said that "an innocent man never asks for a change of venue."

This paragraph is one of many of similar purport often seen in the newspapers. Generally speaking the criticism it contains is true. But whether always true or not, the incident connected with it as related above is one of a multitude that go to show the weakness of the jury system. The object of change of venue is to get away from the judgment, or prejudice, of those who have had opportunity to know most about the matter charged. Cunning lawyers would rather go before the ignorance of a distant jury than trust the feelings of a home tribunal, especially when the accused person is guilty. In a recent number of the North American Review the jury system was discussed at length and ably by an ex-judge, and its shortcomings and dangers pointed out. Recent disclosures in many eastern cities of the methods and operations of "jury-fixers" are calling public attention to the serious consideration of jury improvement. Yet it is admitted that changes must not be radical, but must come legitimately with changes of social conditions. There is much in the following from the Chicago Journal to command assent, but yet we cannot give it unqualified approval:

The question to be considered is: Would it not be infinitely better, especially in all large cities, to dispense with the jury altogether in the trial of ordinary cases and leave the whole matter of law and of fact in the hands of the court? The average juryman is too often an ignoramus; indeed, his total ignorance of the case he is to try is one of the essential qualifications that fit him for the business, and in cases that have attracted public notoriety and been discussed in the newspapers, as all cases of importance now are, the most intelligent and best qualified citizens are those who have an opinion about the guilt or innocence of the accused; these are disqualified, leaving the dolts and professional jurymen to select from. Besides, in a densely populated city, Tom, Dick and Harry are as likely to be picked up in the streets and placed on a jury, to try the most important suits, as the men of substance and reliability.

The suggestion that the jury be dispensed with is one that will not obtain assent, even in the cities, where the abuses of the system are most manifest. For the jury represents the sovereignty of the people; it is opposed to the autocracy of the bench, and is often a bar against judicial tyranny. It cannot be abolished; but juries the country over might be better selected, and changes might be made with possible advantage,—as for instance in certain classes of cases giving the majority of the jury the power to find a verdict. One juror may be "set up" or otherwise "fixed," but not often four or five. The public will not tolerate radical innovations, but would readily consider means to limit the known evils of the system.

A HUMBUG EXPLODED.

There have been many reports during the last ten years on the wonders of the so-called Keeley motor. The alleged inventor is a citizen of Philadelphia, where he has been experimenting for a long period on a dynamic agent which he claims is the most marvelous and powerful thing ever discovered. Keeley admits that he himself does not fully know the secrets of it; but having ascertained its existence and the methods by which it may be produced, he has been engaged in a series of elaborate and costly experiments to control and employ it as a motive-power. One great difficulty, he says, has been the obtainment or construction of engines powerful enough to withstand it. Tubes and cylinders that would resist the highest pressure of steam, he says, are instantly torn to fragments by this mysterious force, whose power, he believes, exceeds that of steam two thousand times. From water alone, and without the aid of fire, he says this force is generated. But he has never let anybody into the secrets of his workshop. The curious thing is that he has been able to maintain for so many years a claim which is evidently fraudulent, and not only to maintain it but to induce credulous persons to supply him with large sums of money to develop his "discovery." But their patience is at length exhausted. The stockholders, who have $150,000 invested, have commenced proceedings against the alleged inventor to find out his "secret." His counsel meets this by putting to the court the inquiry how it is going to force a man to reveal what is confined in his brain. Probably they can do nothing more than seize the machinery their money has constructed, and sell it for old metal. The report of the proceedings against the so-called inventor is interesting from the fact that it virtually announces the dissipation of a humbug that has at one time or another during many years excited a great deal of curiosity and found many to credit it.

BRINGING IT HOME TO THEM.

The Chicago Tribune one of the comparatively few great eastern journals which have an intelligent comprehension of the Chinese question, professes itself unable to see in what respect the sentiments of the veto message, cautiously expressed though they be, differ from those of the celebrated Morey letter which Garfield repudiated with indignation and scorn as "stupid and brutal," and a "base forgery." The Morey letter declared that the writer was "not prepared to say that our treaty with China should be abrogated until our great manufacturing and corporate interests are conserved in the matter of labor." Arthur's veto message says: "There may be sections of the country where this species of labor may be advantageously employed." Is there any real difference in this sentiment and that of the Morey letter? Could Garfield's friends have made a bigger canvass under the banner of protection to home industry with the veto message as a platform than with the Morey letter?

The Tribune also notes as a most surprising incident in the passage of the bill through the house, the course of eight of the nine members from Iowa, who were rabidly against the bill. It rightly thinks that if the six companies would drop down some forty or fifty thousand Mongolian serfs in Iowa, allotting some thousands to each of the towns of Des Moines, Burlington, Dubuque, Davenport, Cedar Rapids and other important places, and invite them to make themselves at home in Iowa at less than one half the wages paid for white labor, the Iowa delegation would have been in that case as earnest in supporting the bill as it was in condemning it in the absence of those conditions. "Boston," the Tribune also suggests, "should be made a 'treaty port' for admission of Chinese, with the stipulation that the coolies who might be imported by the six companies at that port should not be distributed outside the New England states. If such a stipulation were made for the express purpose of favoring New England sentimentalists and manufacturing bosses a very general change in the New England congressional representation might be looked for as soon as the conflict between the Chinese and white laborers in that section should be once fairly under way."

A "SENTIMENTALIST'S" VIEWS.

Mr. Hoar declared in the senate recently that the whole Indian race could be civilized by education in from one to five years, the remark being introductory to an amendment to the Indian appropriation bill allowing $2,000,000 for the education of Indian children at a cost of $200 each. Mr. Hoar said that the 172,000 Indians dwelling west of the Mississippi, excluding those in the five self-supporting tribes, presented what was called the Indian problem. The first consideration was the pettiness of this force which has baffled the statesmanship and divided the strength of the American people for so many years. They did not constitute the 290th part of the population. They had not the fighting strength of any one of the Massachusetts cities with the resources of civilization behind it. They are still more feeble in comparison with the white race as regards their wealth. The gain made by the United States in a single working day is all that is necessary to expend to entirely remove this Indian problem from the consideration of the public. In proof of the Indian's capacity for civilization Mr. Hoar cited the proclamation of Mr. Bushyhead, chief of the Cherokee nation, and reports from the Hampton Carlisle and Forest Grove schools. Continuing, he said that this small number of Indians had cost the government since it was organized in 1779, more than one thousand million dollars. He believed that further expense might be saved, the Indian question settled and the savage Indians made self-supporting by the education probably of a single generation.

Gen. Butler's calculation of the earnings of the Chinese on the Pacific coast, and of the amount of money they send out of the country, is an extravagant one. The amount is very large, of course; but it is not above one-third of $45,000,000 a year. The labor of the Chinese does not yield $1 50 per day. It does not average $1. Probably fifty, or even sixty cents a day would not be an expensive estimate of the amount that each working Chinaman saves up and sends away. As there are 100,000 of them on the Pacific slope, the amount would be $15,000,000 to $18,000,000 a year. This is a prodigious sum to be drawn away from a community which does not much exceed 1,000,000 people. It is great enough without exaggerating it. Gen. Butler is wrong in his estimate of Chinese wages. He thinks the Chinese do not underbid other labor. But they do underbid it by nearly or quite one-half. Most of the Chinese on this coast are just now engaged in railroad work. They get $1 a day and board themselves. White men in the same employment receive $2 25 a day and board themselves. About the same proportion of wages holds in most other employments. Gen. Butler's whole remarks show that he lacks information. He has not got through the shell of the subject.

Postmaster General Howe has in a very small matter shown remarkably good taste. It has for years been the custom of each postmaster general to have a fine steel engraving of himself placed upon the warrants. Howe has abandoned this custom and instead has ornamented his warrants with a portrait of Benjamin Franklin, who was the provincial postmaster general. Some years ago a proposition was made in congress that the portrait of no living person should be placed upon any public document. If such a law could be enacted the result would be the saving of a considerable amount of money in petty matters of this sort. Whenever there is a change in the head of a department it seems now essential that the engravers should make new sets of plates. They cost, in the aggregate, a very considerable sum, and as a matter of fact, plates which are thus engraved are not always used exclusively for official business.

United States treasurer Gilfillan says there is a pressing need of a fractional paper currency. Requests for it in small quantities are coming into the treasury from all parts of the country. It is needed for transmission through the mails of sums less than one dollar, and for certain classes of business that have been wholly destroyed for want of this medium of exchange. The latter applies especially to certain manufactures in New England, which are sent by mail on receipt of twenty-five cents, coin being too heavy and uncertain for this light traffic. Mr. Gilfillan says a good many complaints come from newspaper publishers, who get so many postage stamps that they don't know what to do with them, the government not redeeming them. The treasurer claims the right to issue this fractional currency, but an appropriation to pay expenses is first necessary. He advocates the issue.

A movement is on foot at San Francisco to "Boycott" the Chinese. It is proposed to establish clubs throughout the city and state whose members shall agree, neither to employ Chinese, purchase goods made by them or patronize merchants who keep such goods for sale. These clubs are to be known as "Anti-Chinese Boycotting Leagues." They are to be non-partisan, political discussion of any sort being expressly tabooed. At a preliminary meeting held last week a committee was selected to wait upon the board of supervisors at their next meeting and insist upon their enforcing the law by removing the Chinese outside of the city limits; also, to wait upon the insurance companies and request that they withdraw all insurance upon buildings rented to Chinese. It is not to the credit of the movement that Denis Kearney is at its head.

The Bankers' Magazine estimates that the cotton crop of 1881 was sold through speculative purchases 172 times, the wheat crop ten times, and the corn four times. In his report for 1864 the commissioner of internal revenue, when discussing the advisability of a tax upon sales, said that the transit of agricultural productions from the producer to the consumer is usually much more direct than that of manufactured articles. Large quantities of grain, hay, pork and beef are consumed without sale, and the surplus may be sold once, twice or thrice, while textile fabrics are sold five, six or seven times before being consumed. Competent authorities estimate that on a general average productions of the country are sold four times before reaching the consumer. This comparison brings out in a strong light the speculation in cotton.

A more lucid and truthful classification of party and sectional standing on the Chinese question would be this, that those who know something about them from experience are opposed to the immigration, while those whose knowledge is supplied from theory and second hand information or the observations of the few Chinese students in eastern institutions of learning, favor unrestricted immigration. Pacific coast republicans are as much opposed to this influx as democrats, while the only democrat in congress from Massachusetts went as far as any republican in opposition to the measure that was adopted.

Guiteau still manages to keep himself before the country. He is ranting as usual, and moreover is making money and getting fat. The sums he is obtaining by sale of his photographs and autographs are large—running from $10 to $25 a day. It is said he has been offered quite a large sum for the clothes he wore when he shot the president, and for those he wore during the trial. The garments in which he will make his final appearance, June 30, will be of more interest.

The president peremptorily refuses the application of Fitz John Porter for review of the sentence of the court martial which cashiered him. The sentence, the president holds, is conclusive and final, and Porter cannot obtain the revocation he asks for and his restoration to the army without a special act of congress. This he is not likely to get at present.

A land association headed by H. Clark, a contractor on the Northern Pacific, has purchased of the railroad company a large tract of land in Yellowstone valley. It has taken alternate sections of the grant on the north side of the river for a distance of thirty miles. The sale was concluded on the 13th of March, and covers 60,000 acres.

Here's loyalty for you—Cassius M. Clay, of White Hall, Ky., writes to the New York Sun: "I am for Tilden in 1884, sick or well, living or dying." After this there can be no doubt that the candidate of the democratic party in 1884 will be either Andrew Jackson or Uncle Sammy.

A very general demand has arisen in all parts of the country for another issue of fractional currency. It is needed for a multitude of purposes to which silver in small denominations is not adapted.

The Salt Lake Tribune claims that real estate in that city has advanced twenty per cent. since the passage of the Edmunds bill.

WHITE HOUSE GOSSIP.

Good Taste of the President—His Political Blunders.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—There is a good deal of gossip going the rounds concerning President Arthur's matrimonial intentions. It is a favorite topic of conversation in certain social circles, where the opinion prevails that it will not be a great while before the president will change his condition of life. I met a lady recently who knew the president's wife in her girlhood, and who described her as a lovely girl, with brown hair and eyes, the daughter of Capt. Herndon, of Fredericksburg, Va., who commanded the ill-fated Pacific Mail steamer Central America, and was lost with her. Miss Herndon, after her husband's death, went to New York to live, and there Arthur met and married her. A daughter Alice, whose picture now hangs over the president's bed at the white house.

"There is this to say of President Arthur," said a lady whose name was conspicuous in society circles during the Hayes regime, "no other man I know of could maintain his social position with the excellent taste that Arthur does without ladies' assistance. He has more taste than half the women in the country, and is expert at saying those little things which, though trivial in themselves, go far to establishing success in Washington."

ARTHUR AT CHURCH.

President Arthur is a frequent attendant at St. John's Episcopal church, just across the park from the White House, and which has always been the fashionable place of worship. It is one of the oldest churches in Washington, and resembles an old Virginian court-house more than an Episcopal church. It is impossible to rent a pew for love or money now, and has been all winter. The government in early days always held a pew there, but there has been no Episcopalian President for so long that President Arthur pays for his own. The little Campbellite church, which was so thronged during President Garfield's brief reign has dropped out of sight again, although the Garfield pew, where the masses used to watch him through the window, is still an object of curiosity to a few strangers.

DAMAGED BY THE CRUSH.

President Arthur is said to have been very much disgusted with the public reception at the White House during Gen. Grant's visit, and it is reported that his receptions hereafter will be attended only by invited guests. This is not likely to meet with much popularity. The people love to go to the White House and look about. They claim that it is due because they own the house and the president does not. The damage done to the building by last week's crush was sufficient to disgust one, however, and a few more like it would be disastrous to the elegant furniture and decorations, which have recently been completed. Several of the large double doors had to be entirely scraped and revarnished in order to obliterate the scratches made by coat buttons, jewelry, etc., on the clothing of the crowds that were squeezed through them.

POT-HOUSE POLITICAL MANAGEMENT.

While Arthur is making friends in one direction, he is not in another, however. "I do not know what his plans are," said a western senator the other day, in speaking of the president; "he does not seem able to rise above the level of the New York custom house. To be sure, he allows members of congress to direct nominations for local offices, but, beyond that, all his nominations are traceable to three United States senators: Don Cameron, Logan and Jones of Nevada. They control everything. No one else is consulted, and the nominations are all made from one small faction. There is no breadth to them, and I am afraid they bode no good to the party."

FAIR OAKS.

The Death that met Fifteen Hundred.

[W. M. Runkle in Philadelphia Times.]

We were driven back at Seven Pines the first day, but on the second we gave them a little "Hail Columbia," and drove them back in return about a half a mile from where our stand in line was established on the first day. It was a most terrible sight. I had never seen anything like it, and as I have never seen an account of a rebel charge made that day, I will undertake briefly to describe it. On a wooden eminence a short distance below where our first line had been established two or three batteries of artillery were stationed by Heintzelman. One section of two pieces was drawn out from the wood and placed in the clear cornfield beyond. It was rather a dangerous position for a battery to be in without support. The section had scarcely unlimbered when from the woods in front there debouched four lines of confederates (Gleghorn's brigade), who in regimental front and four lines deep, came pouring down upon the devoted section. "Fire with canister!" commanded the weak little voice of the young lieutenant who commanded the section, and the confederates seemed to laugh at the two little six-pounders opposing them. "Double shot with canister!" said the commander of the masked guns in the woods, and still the enemy came on and on, as if on parade. Not a musket was used, and the section kept booming away with terrible rapidity. I had thought the lieutenant and section would turn tail to the foe, but he did not, but stood there and worked his guns with the coolness of a brave man. All at once, with a yell, the enemy started on a double quick, and in a moment more the section was captured and the lieutenant was a mangled corpse. Now came the most terrible carnage I had ever seen. The capture of the section had evidently greatly encouraged the foe, and his lines swept on and up the hill within about 100 yards of the union cannon. It was a magnificent sight. The lines had not broken yet, but kept on forward as if marching for review. "Fire!" rang out from the woods, and at least a dozen cannon belched forth their storm of death. I can see it even now. Men in all the agonies of death, piled like fence-rails one upon another, with their more fortunate comrades climbing over their mangled bodies to reach the guns. The magnificent lines of a moment before wavered, then stood still, and faded away like snow beneath a summer's sun. The charge was ended, and but a few, if any lived to return. The field where the enemy had advanced was a perfect slaughter pen, indeed. They dead and wounded lay in all directions, and not one of the men who advanced got back again. It was a gallant charge, and to the noble and brave lieutenant who commanded the section alone in the field, and who gave up his life to duty, was the credit of winning the battle due. The enemy lost about 1500 men in killed, wounded and prisoners. Our loss was eight men killed and sixteen wounded.

The Big Greenbacks.

New York Sun.

The largest denomination of legal tenders in existence are the $10,000 notes, none of which have been printed for two or three years. The next highest is the $5000 note, and in succession follow $1000, $500, $100, $50, $20, $10, $5, $2 and $1. In national bank currency there is nothing larger than $1000, and the smaller denominations are the same as in legal tenders. White internal revenue paper varies in size according to the use for which it was designed, some sheets containing 40 or 50 match stamps, and others only 24 of the beer stamps, bank note paper is almost invariably 8¾x13¾ inches. On a sheet of this size four notes are printed, each 3¼x7¼ inches, leaving from three-quarters to one inch for trimming. On sheets of legal tenders the denominations are the same, but the national banks usually have combinations, three 10s and a 20 on a sheet, or 1s, 2s, 50 and 100, as may suit the fancy or convenience of the banker. As soon as it is discovered that a note has been successfully counterfeited a new plate is ordered, the national banks paying $100 for every plate they have made at the bureau. For some unexplained reason the government is troubled very little with counterfeits, the present series of notes having been running since 1869-70, while, on the contrary, nearly a dozen national bank plates have been retired for this reason during the past year. The time required for the printing of a bank note or greenback is twenty-two to twenty-four days, and during that period it passes through the hands of fifty-two persons.

GOOD FOR SORE EYES.
THIS IS TO CERTIFY THAT IN JUNE, 1881, I had acute inflammation in my eyes, and in spite of all the surgical aid I received in Oregon my eyes continued to get worse, until at length I became nearly blind. In August I went to San Francisco and was under the treatment of two prominent and reputable oculists. One was a professor of diseases of the eye, and I remained under his charge a month, but continuing to get worse, I changed to another so-called specialist, to find I was only jumping out of the frying-pan into the fire. I next consulted Dr. Pardee, 604 Clay street, San Francisco. His treatment relieved me from the very first and I continued to improve day by day, until I could see to read as well as any one. I found his treatment both simple and mild, different from any and all other treatments I had received. My residence is in Astoria, Oregon. Insert this card at my own expense out of pure gratitude to Dr. Pardee and without his knowledge to let any similarly afflicted know where to go to get their eyes cured, as I have been through the mill and speak from a sad experience. m31d5w HENRY HARRISON.

MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 17, 1882.

CITY.

LONGSHOREMEN ON A STRIKE.—A few minutes before noon yesterday about 150 longshoremen who had been in the employ of the ... left their work at ... steamship dock, saying they would not ... unless they were paid more... A short time after ... on First street between E and F, where they made a great deal of noise but committed themselves to talking and refrained from violence. One of the party mounted a keg in front of a ... and addressed the men. From his talk it seems that the men had been working for thirty cents an hour ... were perfectly satisfied with this rate of pay until they were required to work Sundays and at night-time for the same wages. The orator said that men employed by stevedores were paid at the rate of 30 cents an hour, for day work, and 50 cents for Sundays and night work, that if other men received this they were certainly entitled to 40 cents an hour for extra work—that is, Sundays and nights. They would work during week days for 30 cents an hour, but when wanted at other times they must be paid 40 cents. Another of the crowd arose to speak after the first had finished, but was silenced by a policeman. The men were orderly throughout the entire time, but seemed determined to uphold the step they had taken. The men who struck are all employed in loading and unloading the company's steamers and boats.

INQUEST ON ANDERSON'S REMAINS.—Coroner Garnold yesterday held an inquest on the remains of Dr. Geo. W. Anderson, who committed suicide in the city jail Saturday. Several prisoners who were in the same cell at the time, were called as witnesses, but told only the fact of having seen the man drink the contents of a bottle which he took from his pocket. From the empty bottles found on his person, it was shown that the poison taken was a mixture of liquid morphia and sugar of lead. Many of his letter were read to the jury, and showed he was on good terms with his wife, but it seemed he had been compelled to leave his home for some crime or misdemeanor. He had been arrested in Eugene for adultery, and in a preliminary examination was held to answer in the sum of $300, which he furnished. According to his statement to a prisoner, he had come to Portland only to secure legal advice. Coroner Garnold sent a dispatch to Anderson's wife, telling her of the death, and will not bury the body until an answer is received. Dr. Saylor was in attendance at the inquest, and told the jury about Anderson's condition at different periods during his suffering. The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the facts already published.

FOUNDLING.—Last night, about half-past eight, Andrew Cambroes, a laborer, found, upon the door-step of his dwelling, No. 81 East Park, between E and F, a girl babe, not more than a day old. The babe was very cleanly and neatly dressed in new clothes, and was wrapped in a striped shawl. When carried into the house, the babe cried lustily, but soon became quiet. Mr. Cambroes reported the matter to the police authorities. He will make application to the managers of the Home this morning to have the foundling admitted. This is a good opportunity to remind those who are charitably disposed that the Ladies' Relief society will establish an infant's department on the first of May in the small house on the Home lot. They need bedding, furniture, linen, etc., and enough for their purpose can easily be spared by a few families during this season of house cleaning and renovating. Donations may be left at Wadhams & Elliott's, or Hachoney & Reno's, or will be called for upon notification to any member of the society.

HE WINKED.—Mrs. J. S. Maddux filed a complaint in the police court yesterday charging J. U. Marks, a blacksmith, with disorderly conduct in having winked and blinked at her on the corner of Second and E streets. Marks was arrested and released on $20 bail.

BASE BALL.—The Oaks played a match game with the Champions on Park and P streets. The Oaks came off victorious—the score standing 31 to 19. The captain of the Oaks is Wm. Young, and the captain of the champions is B. Bling.

STUCK IN THE SANDS.—The British bark Langrigg Hall, in ballast from Rio Janeiro, sailed in over the bar on Friday and in attempting to sail up the river ran on the Chinook sands and was still aground at 8 o'clock last evening.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will announce a decision in this court this morning in the case of Travers et al vs. Baker upon the sufficiency of the plea to the bill.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Prof. J. A. Wesco of the Portland Business College will teach ladies classes in penmanship at 8 P. M. and evening classes from 7 to 8 P. M.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE FOR MORRISON PRECINCT.

As the republican convention failed to make a selection for justice of the peace in Morrison precinct, the undersigned hereby gives notice to the voters of said precinct that he is a candidate for said office at the next June election, and that instead of expending money in the usual way, I propose and will (if elected) pay semi-annually $50 to the Orphans' Home, $50 to St. Vincent's Hospital, and $50 to the Good Samaritan Hospital, payable semi-annually to each of those good institutions. If this is wrong I think it the better wrong. Respectfully,

LEANDER HOLMES.

Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY.

Last night the Young Men's Christian Association held anniversary meetings at the Baptist and the Taylor street Methodist church. At the first named place of worship Capt. M. C. Wilkins ... gave an interesting history of the organization in this city and its work for the past eight years. Rev. Mr. Reed of Port Townsend and Rev. A. L. Lindsley delivered addresses on the wonderful growth of young men's Christian associations throughout the world.

At Taylor street church ... were held. Following is the report of ... Crown, ... of the association.

In celebrating the fourteenth anniversary of the Young Men's Christian Association of our city, it is appropriate that we should review the work of the past year, and survey ... for the future. ... one ... the ... of ... the progress ... direct christian ... for young men throughout our land. The ... is to be the more surprising when it is ... that the results given have been accomplished almost entirely in the past sixteen years. There are now 804 American associations in regular correspondence with one another. They own property ... to the amount of over two millions ...; and the 350 reporting last year raised for current expenses last year about $323,000. Over 200 of them have open reading rooms, many hold daily religious meetings, and all hold weekly services. Seventy report having secured situations for 20,000 men.

Experienced men, aided by volunteer workers, are rapidly organizing associations among the 60,000 young men in our colleges, the 850 railroad men employed on our steam railroads, the 500,000 German-speaking young men, the million colored young men in our land, and the 100,000 commercial travelers, mostly young men.

Is it not time for us to believe that the Lord is raising up these organizations for a greater work in the future than that of the present?

The Young Men's Christian Association is the only organization upon which the whole church of Christ can unite. We have no denominational here. It is one church, one work, one love for the Master. And I know of no organization that represents the universal church as ours does.

In reviewing the work of the past year, we have had many signs that the Lord has been with us. Our three weeks' series of gospel meetings conducted by Bro. Hillenbeck were productive of great good, though held at a season of the year when it was thought to be almost impossible to get the people interested. (Many were out of the city, and others were preparing to leave for their usual summer vacation.) Still, many here to-night will remember how these meetings were attended night after night by large and interested audiences, in Association Hall. And the Sunday evening services at the Taylor street Methodist church, the largely attended noon-day praise service, held near the close of meetings, all gave unmistakable evidence that a deep interest had been awakened. We are unable to number the saved of the Lord during these meetings, but we had the testimony of several that they experienced a change of heart and entered into life everlasting.

Our regular Sabbath afternoon and Wednesday evening meetings have usually been times of refreshing and manifest spiritual power. Many sin-burdened souls have at the close of these meetings expressed a desire to turn from their sinful ways; and some we know have accepted Christ Jesus as their savior, and are to-night rejoicing in the freedom he has brought to them.

We are unable to estimate the value of the work done by our noble band of christians, who so faithfully, Sabbath after Sabbath, and evening after evening, on the street and in the hall, proclaim the gospel in song. Many have been attracted to our meetings by this singing. To the ladies who have assisted us (sometimes at great inconvenience to personal comfort, coming through the heat of summer and the rains of winter) we wish to express our gratitude. The reward is in the hands of the Divine master.

From report of committee on meetings for the year, we find there have been held 52 meetings on Sabbath afternoons, and 53 on Wednesday evenings. Number in attendance at Sabbath meetings, 11,740. Number attending Wednesday evening meetings, 7097. Total, 18,837.

As has been our custom in former years, gospel meetings were held at the state fair at Salem, last year, Chaplain Stubbs taking charge of them. Meetings were of considerable interest.

We have only had twelve additions to our membership, though the number would be eighteen, by counting those who joined at the last annual meeting. We regret to note this. Present membership is 88.

The treasurer reports gross receipts for the year have been $2451 85. Total disbursements for expenses incurred, $1820 55, besides paying a note in the bank of $701. This note was for balance of indebtedness incurred some two years ago for furnishing and refitting our hall. Brother Wadhams, with a heart full of love for our association and its work, concluded last February that we had carried this debt long enough, and in his usual energetic manner in two days raised the sum of $801 from our citizens—$701 paying the note and $100 going toward defraying expenses for the past year. Our present income is not sufficient to sustain the association.

Permit me to make a few suggestions for the future. Having recently visited a number of associations in our eastern cities, I am impressed with the importance of our securing a general secretary. It has proved to be of great benefit to the work of these associations. The committees of the international convention can no doubt secure for us an efficient and trained man for the office. During the last two years 48 secretaries have been located through the agency of this committee, and funds for the support of 32 of these were pledged in response to its efforts.

We are not as an association providing for the physical culture, intellectual improvement, social enjoyment or temporal welfare of the young men of our city. For their physical culture we should have a gymnasium; for intellectual improvement, a course of lectures in the proper season, evening classes, larger reading-room provided with proper literature, and a circulating library; for social enjoyment, a series of musical and recreative entertainments; and for temporal welfare, an employment bureau and boarding-house committee. By providing for our young men in these ways we should counteract the influences of those places in our city that are made so attractive to lure them from the home circle and the paths of virtue and sobriety. We should also give to every young man coming under our influence facilities for obtaining the greatest earthly blessing—a sound mind in a sound body. And by these secular attractions we should come in contact with the young men and advance the chief aim of our work—bringing them to Jesus and persuading them to enter on an active Christian life.

Our thanks are cordially given to the good friends who have contributed so liberally to the support of the work of the association. Let it be understood that the work done is limited only by the amount of means provided for its accomplishment. If the Christian public will furnish additional means, the association will be only too willing to do additional work. Let our motto be, "The young men of Portland for Jesus." God grant that an inspiration may come to us, in which we may see our peculiar work as we have never seen it before, and resolve to give better service than ever.

J. G. CROWN, President.

As we passed Mr. Litt's Suit House, Third street, yesterday our attention was called to the very attractive display in the window, which every lady must admire. Stepping inside we discovered some twenty girls actively at work on dresses. In addition to these Mr. Litt has a number outside at work, and is very anxious to get more, in view of the increasing orders coming daily. Mrs. Litt's time is severely taxed with a large amount of work laid out for her, but she is equal to it. Litt's is the most attractive spot on Third street.

W. SCHEFFLER'S PURE WINES AND BRANDY.

It is universally conceded that Wm. Scheffler's St. Helena (Cal.) Sherry, Port, Angelica, Riesling and Claret wines, as also his vacuum distilled pure Grape Brandy are really superior to other manufactures, not excepting the imported, the adulterations and impurities of which is now generally understood. Mr. Scheffler's goods are popularly known all over the Pacific coast. Eight-tenths of all the druggists in California, Oregon and Washington territory have adopted his goods, discarding the imported. Ask your druggist here in Portland, East Portland, or in any town in this northwest, and you will be quite sure to obtain it, as you will at most of the first-class hotels and bars. Mr. Scheffler's Wines and Sanitary Brandy have been steadily growing into favor until they are known well in almost every household as a medicine, if not otherwise. Mr. Scheffler's process of distilling in a vacuum is his own patent process, which relieves his brandy of the fusil oil, making it really pure, sanitary and healthful.

STORAGE OF ELECTRICITY.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Natural Science Association, on the 8th inst., the subject of the storage of electricity was taken up, and ably discussed by Dr. E. G. Dex, the president of the association. He started out by saying that the term "storage of electricity" was a misnomer; that electricity was not stored in the sense that we store grain or other substances for future use, but there properly it was a chemical change, produced by a generator of electricity or primary battery, on lead or some other metals immersed in diluted sulphuric acid; which change, when no longer supported by the primary current, proceeded at once to return to its former chemical condition, and that through it is now chemical action in the reconstituting of the different elements that had been separated by the original current, a secondary current was produced in the opposite direction. After the battery was detached from the ... from 15 to 20 per cent. of the primary current. The doctor stated that this was a recent discovery, and that composition ... but it would be of great service in extending the uses to which electricity may be applied when the discovery was fully developed. He then proceeded, with a small battery, to illustrate these phenomena. He connected the positive and negative wires of the battery to two strips of lead immersed in small glasses containing diluted sulphuric acid. These, when attached to the galvanometer, caused the north pole of the needle to deflect from zero eastward some 30 or 35 degrees. When the battery was detached, the same pole of the needle at once made a deflection west from zero from 15 to 45 degrees, and gradually, in a few minutes, fell back to zero.

The pole or lead plates composing the battery is first oxydized before being put into the acidulated water. The chemical change then induced by the first or primary current, is the decomposition of water; the oxygen of the water goes over to the positive pole and unites with the oxide of lead, producing a super oxide of lead. The hydrogen thus set free goes to the negative pole and unites with the oxygen of the lead, forming water and leaving free lead. When the battery is detached the chemical unions thus formed break up or return to their original condition, the oxygen of the water uniting with the free lead deoxyposing the water, and the hydrogen thus set free going over to the super oxide of lead of the positive pole and unites with its excess of oxygen, reforming water. In this way the equilibrium is restored and the secondary current is produced in the opposite direction. This constitutes the storage of electricity in this instance; it is something after the manner of storing up power in the winding of a clock. When the power applied in winding ceases, the spring immediately begins to unwind, causing the clock to run and keep time. Such secondary batteries have already been made use of, to some extent, for portable electric lights and other purposes.

It is announced that Mr. William H. Vanderbilt is not pleased with the coming marriage of Commodore Vanderbilt's widow to Dr. Nathan Bozeman, of New York; but Mrs. V. has passed quite a long widowhood, and she is entirely her own mistress as to her choice and fortune.

NEWS OF SATURDAY.

Blain Wants to Testify Before the Shipherd Committee.

THE PRESIDENT GIVES FITZ JOHN PORTER NO ENCOURAGEMENT

Captain Howgate's Escape said to be Contrived by Former Associates in Fraud

[From the Sunday Oregonian]

WASHINGTON, Dec 15.—Chairman Williams received the following:

WASHINGTON, April 14

SIR: At the convenience of your committee I desire to be heard in reference to Peru-Chilian matters now under investigation. Awaiting your pleasure I am very respectfully

JAS G BLAINE.

The chairman was directed to acknowledge the receipt of the letter leaving it an open question for the present as to when Blaine should be heard.

Representative Lord then took up the cross-examination of Shipherd. Witness stated in reply to a question: I dealt with Hurlbut as I would have dealt with a recognized criminal.

Question—Now was that by advice of counsel.

Answer—The dealings I had with him were by advice of counsel.

Witness was closely pressed on this point and finally went into a long explanation to the effect that in his dealings with Hurlbut he acted wholly on the defensive, as he could strike him and in dealing with him really as he was a bad man and he must protect with him to prevent him from injuring them. "I did not intend to mislead General Hurlbut. I meant just what I said in my offer to him." Witness consulted with Boutwell, whose comment was: That the letter seems plain enough to a careful reader, but if I had consulted Shiphard I doubt if I should have advised sending it.

Guiteau's Latest Screed.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Guiteau in his latest screed to the American people says: Nearly every day I notice something in the newspapers from the Scovilles cranked brains and in self defense I hereby notify the public they have nothing whatever to do with me. I never employed Scoville and never intended he should have anything to do with my case as he is not my kind of a man and he has been a nuisance ever since he crawled into the case in October on the ground of being my brother in law. Once in the case he managed to sneak. At the beginning of the trial I sent out an appeal to the legal profession of America and received many replies, but Scoville intercepted my letters, and I thereby obtained competent counsel on the case. Without means, character or experience he assumed the management of the most important criminal case of the century and of course made a miserable failure. Had my case been well tried there would have been no conviction. I am so enraged at Scoville for his jackass way of doing things that I would not take an imprisonment if it came through him. Within thirty days I have paid Scoville $275 besides something during the trial which is more than his alleged services are worth. In an interview Tuesday I told him never to mention my name again or come into my presence under any circumstances. He has tried to make himself especially busy about my book, which will be put upon the market in a few days as he sees large money in it. He would not care if I was hung to-morrow so he could get hold of my book. I hereby notify the public that the Scovilles, that if I had $100,000 in bank the Scovilles could not get a dollar of it. I take no stock in my relations anyway. Had they all died twenty years ago it would have been a godsend to me. My father ran me into that stinking Oneida community when a boy and Scoville married me off in a mean, dirty way on ten hours' notice in 1869 to a poor, uneducated girl without position or friends. I did not need a wife more than a dog does two tails and I had no means to take care of one. It caused us both great trouble and afterwards resulted in divorce. Hon Chas H Reed has entire charge of my case in the court in banc, and he will be privately assisted by two of the ablest members of the Washington bar. Mr Reed also has charge of pushing my book. Scoville crawled into my case to get notoriety out of me, and I peremptorily discharge him

CHARLES GUITEAU.

Mrs. Scoville's Case.

Mrs. Scoville's petition for appointment as conservator of the estate of Guiteau came up in court this morning. Judge Loomis said that in view of recent decisions of the supreme court of the state there was some uncertainty about the jurisdiction of his court in probate matters, and advised them to let the matter rest till the doubt was settled, or take the matter to the probate court, which unquestionably had jurisdiction in probate cases. Counsel stated he would rather have the court refuse to hear the petition and he would then appeal to the supreme court direct. This accordingly was done. Before reaching the state supreme court the case must go through the appellate court and this will require some six weeks, as court is not in session and there are other cases ahead of it. Mrs Scoville appeared in court in person to-day.

Examination of the New Bill.

In to-day's special meeting of the senate foreign relations committee printed copies of the new Chinese bill, framed by Miller, Jones and Page were submitted to the committee by Senator Miller and its points of difference from the vetoed measure were briefly explained. The meeting was then adjourned until next Tuesday, in order to allow all members of the committee an opportunity to examine details of the new measure, and in the hope also, as far as Miller and Mitchell were concerned, that the house of representatives will next Monday pass the same bill under suspension of rules, in accordance with the programme which Page, acting by authority of the committee on education and labor, will then endeavor to effect.

Both of the Washington newspapers this morning have editorials devoted to the Chinese question. The Post seriously remarks that Pacific coast republican congressmen should not be blamed for their efforts to relieve their party from responsibility for fear of anti-Chinese legislation. It then proceeds to argue that although on this question there is but one party in California and while its judgment this work done for the vetoed bill by the two California senators may be considered of equal merit the record of the two parties in congress shows that the democratic party is opposed to unrestricted Chinese immigration and that the republican party is in favor of it.

Senator Farley to-day introduced copies of a bill heretofore introduced in the house by Delegate Ainslie amendatory of laws concerning territorial supreme courts and jurisdiction of justices of the peace for Washington, Idaho and Montana. Senator Slater introduced ... bill providing ... Idaho.

The Country's Crop Prospects.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The synopsis of the April report of the department of agriculture upon the area and condition of winter grain shows an increase of nearly half a million acres or two per cent. The estimated area of the previous crop was 24,340,000 acres. The states showing increase are Michigan, 5 per cent ... An average increase in cotton states of 26 per cent amounts to almost 500,000 acres. In northern Atlantic states, from Connecticut to Virginia, 95,000 acres which is about 60,000 acres less than in 1881. In the western states, from West Virginia to Kansas there is an average diminution of 2 per cent, the decrease being 1 per cent in Illinois, 3 in Missouri and 11 in ... The Pacific coast ... In the last 57 strictly winter wheat ... In cotton states and in Delaware Maryland and Virginia ... averages are Connecticut, 82; New York, 97; New Jersey 95, Pennsylvania, 96 and Ohio, 97. Delaware averages 18 points above 100. Maryland, 9; Virginia, 4; North Carolina, 13; South Carolina, 17; Georgia, 9; Alabama, 12; Mississippi 14; Louisiana 15; Texas 4; Arkansas 12; Tennessee 8; West Virginia 6; Kentucky 12; Michigan 8; Indiana, 5; Illinois 2; Missouri, 10; Kansas 10. Winter rye shows an increase of area except in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Delaware, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Missouri. The increase is relatively largest in the south. A full report is printed and will show time of sowing, proportion of drilled and sown broadcast, details of injury by Hessian fly which are comparatively slight, and other information illustrating the condition of crops.

Minority Report on the Chinese Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Willis' minority report states that a minority of the members have desired to report a Chinese bill fixing the term of suspension at fifteen years and restoring the penalty clause, but that in view of the statement that Page would on Monday endeavor to pass his bill under suspension if so as they had determined not to report the fifteen year bill but to vote for Page's motion. They filed a report however for the purpose of formally stating their preference for fifteen years suspension. They base their argument in support of that proposition upon the popular demand of the people of the Pacific coast and on the fact that to the mass of people a suspension of twenty years was not acceptable.

J F Swift member of the commission who represented the anti-Chinese sentiment had declared that a ten years suspension was worse than none and that it would not restore to its normal condition the industrial and business interests of California or come up to the expectation of the people of that state.

Brickmakers Strike.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The brickmakers union comprising nearly all the brickmakers in the city have demanded an advance of twenty five cents a day. Nineteen firms have united in a letter setting forth that disaster to building interests will follow such an exorbitant scale of prices and outside points could ship brick here and shut up all the yards in the city if the advance was granted.

Investigation Concluded

CHICAGO April 14.—The decision of Inspector G W Gordon and John F Scott who have been investigating the Bella Mace explosion, place the entire blame on Charles Monaghan second engineer on watch at the time of the explosion by neglecting his duties.

Buffalo's Bank Failure.

BUFFALO, N Y, April 15.—The First National, which suspended yesterday, held an enviable financial position although lately rumors had been flying that the young president was speculating too much in Chicago banks. The last statement showed assets $1,337,000; liabilities outside of stock $1,130,000. It had $80,000 U S court money, $30,000 city and $12,000 county funds, secured by almost worthless bonds. Large defalcations are rumored but officials deny it. President Lee says the bank did too large a discount business.

Connecticut Resolutions.

HARTFORD April 15.—The house of representatives passed a resolution requesting the pardon of Sergeant Mason and his restoration to his rank in the army; also a resolution asking congress to take action for relief of American citizens confined in British prisons as "suspects."

Arrested for Complicity.

ST. JOSEPH, MO, April 14.—Enos J Crowther ex city register and city attorney and present city assessor together with a man named John Cox late clerk for John C Bender pension agent were arrested to-night on complaint of Major Posegate charging them with complicity in the $100,000 bond steal.

A Large Firm Closing Out

The Storms and Floods.

MORGAN CITY LA April 14.—Wednesday night's storm destroyed two negro churches several dwellings and two or three warehouses at Chafalaya City, Primiert and other points in the neighborhood. At Pendley Station stores and dwellings were carried away.

BAYOU SARA LA April 14.—The break at Chandlers, on Red river three miles above Red river landing is 400 feet wide. From that place to Hog Point there are 30 crevasses 50 to 400 feet wide.

NEW IBERIA April 14.—The situation is appalling. The storm swept away forty houses at Fairfax Point and the loss of stock crops etc is enormous. At New Iberia all establishments on the bayou and river were overflowed and also many houses heretofore considered safe. At least 1500 persons in Iberia parish are left without shelter and support.

O'Connor's Views of America

CHICAGO, April 15.—Thomas Power O'Connor says he had raised $40,000 in the west for the land league. He could scarcely express the pleasure he experienced over his cordial reception in the chief cities in the west and spoke of California as "God's own country where the climate was ever glorious and the people intelligent free-hearted and generous." Mr O'Connor was asked what he had observed as a stranger in a strange land in respect to the Chinese question. "That," replied the agitator, "appears to be fairly an American question and I will not discuss it whether the movement to drive them out is just or unjust the people of the Pacific Slope so far as I was able to judge were unanimously against them."

Garfield Notes

CLEVELAND, April 14.—Mrs Alfa Boynton only sister of grandma Garfield died to-day at Hiram aged 78.

Burned at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO April 16.—The bark Henry Buck arrived here to-day from Honolulu bringing information that the British ship Norval loaded with coal and bound for San Francisco from Hull was burned at sea on the 4th of March in latitude 11 30 north, longitude 120 deg. west. The officers and crew took to the ship's boats and sailed 700 miles to Hawaii where they took the steamer Like Like to Honolulu arriving there on the 20th of March. The boat containing the first officer and the rest of the crew was still missing when the Henry Buck left Honolulu.

Stablekeeper Killed.

NAPA, April 15.—Last night W S Lockwood a stablekeeper was shot and instantly killed by ex Sheriff John F Zollner. Zollner was walking up Main street with J McGee and on recognizing Lockwood Zollner said "Here is the man I am looking for", leveled a navy revolver and fired. The ball went clear through his head. Zollner gave himself up. Lockwood had been suspiciously intimate with the wife of Zollner.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Victoria Notes.

VICTORIA April 14.—At 7 o'clock this morning the longshoremen engaged in discharging the steamer G W Elder struck for fifty cents an hour. They had been receiving twenty five cents for day work and fifty cents for night work. The steamer brought a heavy freight and the inconvenience experienced was considerable and the steamer will not get away until to-morrow morning, as only about half a force could be procured to discharge her.

The Clements Island railway bill was partially passed by the house to-day. The Dunsmuir Island railway bill has been reported by the committee on private bills in an amended form.

Beef and mutton advanced 2½ cents in day.

SUICIDE OF A PHYSICIAN.

ANDERSON WILL NOT BE ...

Chief of police Lappeus telegraphed the fact to sheriff Shelly who had ordered his arrest. At 3 o'clock Anderson had recovered sufficiently to recognize ... faces at his bedside and made a number of unsuccessful efforts to speak. Dr Saylor attending him all the while. From this time on he seemed to be gradually declining and at six o'clock was again entirely unconscious and laboring hard for breath. At a quarter past seven with Chief Lappeus, Capt Gritzmacher and several others at his bedside Anderson expired. During his last few moments he breathed more freely and made no struggle, only now and then uttering short moans. Coroner Garnold was notified of his death and the body taken to the morgue soon after where an inquest will be held to-day.

Following is the note written in the jail with a lead pencil upon a blank envelope with the stamp of the chief of police upon it:

MRS JAMES GOODWIN

May God bless you my poor girl and my baby now mourning for me. Good bye with this world. God bless you. We will meet in heaven.

GEORGE W ANDERSON

When found on the floor of his cell he was carried into the waiting room where his outer clothing was removed. When his boots were taken off a diploma and license were found in one of them. The diploma was from the Tennessee State Medical College at Nashville and signed by Prof A V F Lindsley and all the faculty. It was dated March 2d 1868. The license to practice was dated November 10th 1877 and made out by the medical examiners of Shasta county California. When arrested two pocket medicine cases, an instrument case, a large leather pocket-book containing letters and papers, silver watch with gold chain $13 70 in money, pocket knife and a key ring with five keys attached were taken from him.

There were one hundred or more letters in the book written.

CONCERNING BUSINESS MATTERS

From parties in California, Washington Territory and British Columbia. However there were several from Larnes Station, Dickinson county Tennessee, signed by Mary K Anderson and addressed "My dear husband." They contained nothing of importance speaking only of family affairs and of their future reunion. An envelope contained a faded picture of himself and another of a lady with "Mary Anderson" written under it—supposed to be his wife—was found among the letters.

There were also many Wells Fargo & Co's receipts for money sent through their offices. To judge from them it seems that he was doing business with several large drug firms as he had sent many hundred dollars to firms in New York, Boston, San Francisco and Chicago. Some of the receipts were for money sent in small amounts to a Mrs Daubenbeck at Chico, Nevada. Many also were for money sent his wife in larger amounts than the others. In all they represented several thousand dollars. The instrument case contained but a few rusted instruments of little value. The medicine case was filled with small vials partially emptied and some prescription blanks.

Anderson is a man of medium height with black hair and long chin beard of the same color. He was of rather slender frame and dressed in a neat fitting dark colored suit.

Deputy Sheriff McCormack arrived from Eugene on the afternoon train and states that the charge upon which an order for Anderson's arrest was made is adultery.

Anderson has been living in Eugene a year ago or more and up to the time of this trouble was looked upon as a thorough, respectable citizen. He had an average good practice and moved in good society.
